Key areas of expertise

Translation services for IFRS reports

Financial reports in accordance with the various International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) require special care and standardised terminology. Our services include, among others:

- Translation of annual financial statements and consolidated reports.
- Ensuring compliance with international accounting standards.
- Use of modern translation technologies to ensure consistency.

Sustainability reports and ESG translations

We ensure that your content is communicated clearly and convincingly in all languages.

- Translation of reports on environmental protection, social measures and corporate governance.
- Consideration of regional and cultural nuances.
- Support in complying with international reporting standards.

Professional translation of group management reports

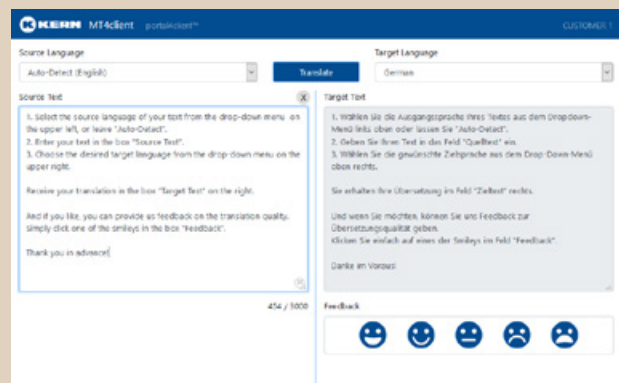

Group management reports present complex economic relationships and require an in-depth understanding of specialised terminology.

- Translations of market analyses and company forecasts.
- Assurance of accuracy in terminology through specialised translators.
- Technical and linguistic quality assurance in accordance with ISO 17100.

Market-leading AI solutions for the financial industry

Depending on the project, the use of specialised machine translation engines based on artificial intelligence might be a viable option. This allows domain-specific translation projects to be implemented even better. With our self-developed “finance engine”, you benefit from optimal machine translation results for business reports and financial statements.

Our MT4client™ machine translation software is regularly subjected to industry-specific training. As a result of the extensions for the finance area, we have an engine that has been specifically trained for the translation of annual reports. Linguistic particularities relating to financial communication in the source language are initially correctly identified and subsequently precisely rendered in the target language under consideration of the specific terminology.
